

Our Renewables Team takes a leading role in the Global Solar Energy Standardisation Initiative

by Bird&Bird on 24 November 2017

Our co-heads of our Renewables Priority Development Area, Elizabeth Reid and Sophie Dingenen together with Rhianna Wilsher and Carol Cloughley, are taking a leading role in the Global Solar Energy Standardisation Initiative (SESI). SESI is an ambitious joint program of IRENA – International Renewable Energy Agency and The Terrawatt Initiative, along with SolarPower Europe and the Global Solar Council. The initiative aims to redesign and rethink how best to promote solar for future increased deployment around the globe. One of the main objectives is to create a standard set of bankable contract precedents that can be used on any major solar project in the world. The precedents will have a balanced risk allocation and will include the seven major contracts required to design, build, finance and operate a solar project.
